1. Clandestine APRA publications are now appearing more or less regularly in various sections of Peru. For matters of press and propaganda, the country has been divided regionally, and the papers put out in the provinces are financed without help from the party in Lima. In the Lima area, there are financial difficulties still to be solved before La Tribuna can again appear.
2. JAP, known as the official clandestine organ of the Juventud Aprista Peruana, the Aprista youth group, is put out in mimeograph form by a group of students in the Lima area.
3. Chan Chan is a miniature edition of the former Aprista weekly of the same name published in the city of Trujillo. It is said to be printed on the same press as the former Chan Chan, which was previously reported to have been saved from government confiscation.*
4. El Rebelde is a mimeographed sheet known as the organ of the Peruvian Aprista Youth, published by the Aprista Youth of Trujillo.
